USING DEDICATED STAMP SOFTWARE TO GET MORE OUT OF COLLECTING

By Tim Wallaert

At our stamp club meeting on March 11, I gave a presentation sharing my thoughts on using dedicated stamp software to get more out of collecting. This was all born out of the realization that since I've become active in the hobby again, I really needed to get a grip on what I had in my collection and what I need. This point was driven home to me one meeting where I was looking at some excellent Canadian stamps that Andy had brought. As I was about to make an offer to buy a set, Andy stopped me and said"Tim, I think I've already sold you that set. I might have sold you two"…and he was right. So that caused me to step back and take a good look at how I could get organized.

Four potential approaches occurred to me. First, just don't bother. There is a certain joy in having a little bit of messiness in your life, where you don't have to have everything all in order. It can be quite freeing. But it can also lead to you buying the same stamp from Andy three times over! The second approach was to just use good old-fashioned pen and paper to record what you've got and what you need. For me, that approach quickly lost its appeal as it would be difficult to update and maintain. Third approach would be to use a spreadsheet program like Excel or Google Sheets. This had the appeal of being able to easily manipulate and search electronically. But again, it would entail a fair bit of work getting everything set up and I'd still be missing a way to have values updated easily. The fourth approach (and rest of this article) describes what I found.

USPS ANNOUNCES 3 NEW ISSUES FOR BOSTON STAMP EXPO

From the USPS Newsroom

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Postal Service today announced three additional stamp issues that will be premiered at the Boston 2026 World Exposition, the 12th international philatelic exhibition of the United States.

The expo will run from May 23-30 and will feature a USPS first-day-of-issue ceremony on most days of the show.

Treasures of the Revolutionary Era

The Treasures of the Revolutionary Era stamps will be issued as part of the opening ceremony for the 2026 Boston World Exposition.

To mark the 250th anniversary of the American Revolution, the U.S. Postal Service presents this 20-stamp prestige booklet as part of a broader USPS initiative commemorating 250 years of American independence. Centered on 10 compelling objects from the era, the booklet offers a vivid connection to the symbols and stories that helped shape the United States. Reflecting the booklet's focus on tangible history, the featured objects range from simple tools to powerful symbols of national purpose drawn from museum collections and historical archives. To complement the stamps, the booklet also includes images and background text that place each object in historical context, connecting everyday experiences to the larger forces at work during the Revolutionary era. Ethel Kessler, an art director for USPS, designed the

Philately at a Crossroads

As collectors, we are stewards of history. For generations, stamp collecting has connected us to the world—its people, its events, and its stories—through objects small in size but immense in meaning. Our albums are not merely pages of paper, but records of culture, communication, and continuity.

Yet it is clear that our hobby stands at a crossroads.

Many of us have witnessed changes in recent years: fewer letters in daily life, evolving postal systems, and shifts in how collectors buy, sell, and share their material. Traditional pathways into philately—family inheritance, local clubs, and printed catalogs—are no longer the only gateways. Increasingly, collectors are discovering the hobby through digital platforms, online exhibitions, and global marketplaces.

At first glance, these changes may seem to challenge the foundations of our hobby. But on closer reflection, they may also represent its renewal.

Today's collectors are not abandoning philately; they are approaching it differently. Thematic collecting—once a niche pursuit—has become a primary avenue for many, allowing individuals to build collections around personal interests and tell stories in new and engaging ways. Technology, too, has expanded access, connecting collectors across continents and making material available that once required years to locate.

Even so, the core of philately remains unchanged. The careful study of a stamp, the appreciation of its design and

EDITOR'S MUSINGS

By Stan Bartnikowski

Featured in this issue is an article by Tim Wallaert reviewing several software programs to inventory our stamps ("Using Dedicated Stamp Software to Get More Out of Collecting", page 1). Usage of such software allows us to create want lists and avoid buying the same stamp over and over again. In the July-August issue of 2021, Art von Reyn and myself compared a few software programs to compose and print one's own album pages ("Creating Do-It-Yourself Album Pages"). Next issue, I plan to provide an article on stamp identification software. Members are encouraged to write up their experiences using computer software "to get more out of collecting" and submit them to the editor.

The astute reader may notice some slight differences in the format since the previous issue. That's because I have gone to different software for creating this newsletter. Previously I had been using Microsoft Publisher but that product is being discontinued in October of this year. Most alternatives are sold on a subscription basis: you can't just buy the software and own it: one needs to pay a monthly subscription to use it. In the meantime, I got tired of Windows and its constant updates,

SPOTLIGHT ON …

RICK HOSLER

Interviewed by Stan Bartnikowski

Rick Hosler hails from Hellertown Pennsylvania (near Bethlehem),. Rick graduated from Penn State with a degree in Zoology. Rick's career was with the Central Intelligence Agency. He assures me he wasn't a spy, but a technical analyst. Rick retired, moved to Myrtle Beach, South Carolina for about 20 years and then relocated to Dallas around 2018, to be with family here.

Rick began collecting in his 30s or 40s, focusing primarily on U.S. and its possessions. His travels extended his scope to the British and French areas. Contrary to most of us that started collecting at an early age and took a respite during college and early family years, Rick has been collecting continuously since he began.

While primarily interested in U.S. and its possessions, Rick does takes an interest in stamps from Jack's Albums. He primarily buys and sells through the club.

Rick joined the Dallas-Park Cities Philatelic Society 5 or 6 years ago, quickly volunteering to be club secretary and then vice president/program committee chairman. The club is thankful for his years of service as a club officer. He enjoys meeting with other club members, citing their broad range of interests. He also finds the meetings very interesting. Rick also joined the American Philatelic Society about 5 years ago.

STAMPS NEEDED FOR KIDS

Don Wolman thanks the DPCPS members for their generosity. During the past few months, club members have been generously donating their own extra stamps to the program. Overall, thousands of stamps have been donated, so Don is fully supplied for the rest of this school year. I greatly appreciate the members' generosity and interest in this program. So far this school year, Don has presented the program to over 1,700 students in Dallas ISD elementary schools. He hopes to get that number up to 2,000 by the end of this month (April)

SHOW 'N TELL

By Stan Bartnikowski

I recently received a large, stamped cover from a Canadian stamp dealer that I showed at a recent stamp club meeting. I ordered more stuff from this guy and received the items in another beautiful cover, shown here.

Front of Canada Cover received by the editor

Rear of Canada cover received by the editor.

As you can see, the cover is plastered with several very attractive Canadian stamps, including souvenir sheets for the Year of the Dragon, Peonies and the International Year of the Family. All of the souvenir sheets and the other stamps were neatly cancelled by Canada Post. Would that all of our packages were mailed this way.

security breaches and flaws and switched to a MacBook (Christmas present to myself). The most prominent software for creating a newsletter is Adobe Indesign - but that has a very steep learning curve and is subscription only. Affinity recently made their publisher/design software free, but I found it offered way more function than I need and is quite complicated to use. Then I found Swift Publisher which is low cost (about $20), doesn't require a subscription and which I used to create this issue.

I have been editor of this newsletter for about four years and I believe the time has come to allow someone else to produce the newsletter. If you have any interest, please contact me (Stan Bartnikowski). Thank you.

history, and the satisfaction of building a thoughtful collection continue to define our pursuit. These are values that no technological shift can replace.

Our responsibility, then, is not to resist change, but to guide it. We must ensure that the knowledge, standards, and traditions that have long defined our club are carried forward—shared with newer collectors who may arrive by different paths. In doing so, we strengthen both our community and the future of the hobby itself.

Philately is not in decline; it is in transition. And as with any transition, it offers both challenges and opportunities.

Let us approach this moment with the same care and curiosity that we bring to our collections—honoring the past, while remaining open to the future.

Respectfully,

Fernando Torres

USING DEDICATED STAMP SOFTWARE

My ideal stamp software/app would have the following characteristics:

- Free
- Cloud Based – Access Anytime, Anywhere…just like my Gmail
- Supported in the future
- Easy entry of my stamps and related information (condition, date acquired, price paid, etc)
- Ability to quickly search my collection
- Create want lists
- Print out / document contents of my collection
- Current Scott value of stamps and my collection

Bonus features would include:

- Being able to use my wish list to automatically search on-line
- Stamp identifier
- Make custom album pages

What I found available out there fell into two broad categories – Cloud Based and PC-Based. The cloud-based solutions such as StampWorld, iCollect, and Colnect fell far short of what I was looking for – non-standard stamp numbering systems, click-bait ads, and cumbersome navigation. It is worth noting though that several members of the club find Colnect useful as a research resource, it is "crowd sourced" and the community on Colnect has been helpful in providing information on issues that might not be covered well in standard resources such as Scott or Minkus.

In the PC Based category, there were two main offerings: StampManage (www.stampcollectingsoftware.com) and EzStamp (www.ezstamp.com/software/stamp-collectingsoftware). I found both to be very straightforward with respect to navigation and data entry – you could add as much, or as little, information as you wanted for each stamp in your collection. Both had massive stamp databases utilizing the Scott Catalog numbering system with images of nearly all the stamps. It is like having all the Scott Catalogs electronically! Both provide what they consider market values for the stamps. Both had the capability to search eBay and HipStamp for items on your want list. The only real difference in functionality was that the ability to create reports and want lists was much easier in StampManage. EzStamp, on the other hand, had the capability to create custom album pages (via a separate add-on program called AlbumGen (www.ezstamp.com/software/stamp-album-software). The biggest difference to me came down to price. As seen in the table on the next page, EzStamp is two to three times the price of StampManage (it should be noted that both are a bargain compared to the Scott Catalogs themselves as most of the relevant information from the catalogs are available in the programs).

I have "put my money where my mouth is" so to speak and purchased the Worldwide edition of StampManage. As I began using it, I made note of a few things --- not about the software itself, but about how I was using it.

First, I quickly found out that you can get carried away trying to catalog all the details about everything you have in your collection. Do I really need to enter individual information on all 58 copies of the 3c Statue of Liberty (#1035) from the Liberty Issue of 1954? Or should I just simply put in one entry for all 58? Or not even bother at all and just keep them in their storage box? (I've only held onto them because they were a gift from my uncle that got me started in the hobby).

Second, I found joy in spending time with parts of my collection that I hadn't reviewed in a while as I was entering the stamp information into the program. What I thought might be drudgery turned out to be refreshing and satisfying.

Lastly, I was able to solve the problem of being able to access the information when I'm not in front of my PC simply creating an MSExcel report of my collections and want lists and putting them up on my Google drive.

I've been using StampManage for the past few weeks and have only begun to scratch the surface of its capabilities. I know that other members of the club use StampManage and EzStamp. I would love to know what you think of these or any other programs you might be using. Come grab me at the next meeting and let's talk!

February 11, 2026

The 2/11/2026 meeting of the Dallas Park Cities Philatelic Society was called to order by President Torres at 8:06PM at the Edgemere Senior Living facility in Dallas. We welcomed John Hughes as a new member. There were 20 members present. The Secretary's report indicated we have 35 paid members plus two junior members. During the meeting, in addition to John, we received membership dues from Nikita Eliseev and Andy Lasko. If you have not paid your dues and are receiving this message please send a check to the Dallas Park Cities Philatelic Society care of Jerry Madden at 428 Valley Glen Drive Richardson TX 75080 before our next meeting. Rod Gabel gave the Treasurer's report. The President discussed the board meeting and gave a report on the microphone situation. He also briefed the club on the "Ask the Expert" program for the next meeting. If you have any item that you need help in identification please forward that information to President Torres and the club. Jack presented information on the Hungarian Crown Jewels which were turned over to US sources in Germany just before the end of the Second World War and held in Fort Knox until the 1970's when President Carter returned them to Hungary. A brief discussion of tariffs seemed to lead to the information they were not being Treasures of the Revolutionary Era, to be issued at the 2026 Boston World Exposition.

Postcrossing

These stamps recognize Postcrossing for highlighting the fun of receiving real, personalized mail and promoting greater understanding across countries and cultures. Since 2005, Postcrossing has inspired more than 805,000 people in more than 200 countries and territories to send more than 85 million postcards to eager recipients around the world. These stamps may be used to send a postcard or letter from the United States to any country to which First-Class Mail International service is available. These stamps will have a postage value equivalent to the price of the single-piece First-Class Mail International first-ounce machinable letter at the time of use. Issued in panes of eight, these triangular stamps' colorful illustrations by Jackson Gibbs playfully acknowledge the great distances postcards often need to travel and the efforts of the dedicated workers who help them reach their far-off destinations. Antonio Alcalá, an art director for USPS, designed the stamps.

North American Soccer

Excitement is high as players and fans await the start of the 2026 FIFA World Cup co-hosted by the United States, Mexico and Canada. The United States alone will host 76 World Cup matches in 11 locations, including the final match in New Jersey. Soccer has become especially popular with younger Americans, with millions playing at the youth level and more than 800,000 participating in high school, and our nation's role as a host could again reshape the future of soccer in the United States. Antonio Alcalá, an art director for USPS, designed the stamp.

charged on postage stamps from auctions and other sources. Al Dlhy then led the auction night with several interesting items and a lot of good participation. After the auction we did Jack's books and adjourned at 9:08 PM. Again, as a reminder, if you have items for identification please send them in this coming week for the President and club members to see. Send a picture of the items if possible. Also get your dues paid this month.

The meeting of the Dallas Park Cities Philatelic Society on 02/25/2026 was called to order at the Edgemere Senior Living Facility in Dallas by President Fernando Torres at 7:38 PM. The Secretary's report was that we now have 42 members for the 2026 year that are paid. If you have not pad your dues please send a $12 check to he Dallas Park Cities Philatelic Society care of Jerry Madden at 428 Valley Glen Drive, Richardson TX 75080. The Secretary will start sending messages to those former members not paid for 2026 in a few days. Rod Gabel gave the Treasurer's Report. Al Dlhy reported on upcoming meetings and presented information of the birthday cards he will be sending out for the members. He sent around a list to have members show the areas of interest for their collection so the cards would contain some stamps of the interest area. Don talked about his recent presentations to students of the Dallas School District. He is doing a great job interesting students in stamps. He reported to the Secretary that he needs more stamps from Asian nations including China Japan Mongolia, and Papua New Guinea and would appreciate any stamps the members can donate to this very worthy project. Nikita showed his item from the last day of issue of stamps from Denmark.

The program was conducted by the President and it was our second "Ask the Experts" night to help identify items that the member could not identify and needed the help of members of the club. There were several interesting items and the club helped identify them Many of them were revenue items and Jack was particularly strong in recognizing many of the items. It was a very interesting evening with items from China, Yugoslavia, Austria and others. We then had a brief time out to look at Jack's books and he presented his items. The meeting adjourned at 8:52 PM.

March 11, 2026

The 3/11/2026 meeting of the Dallas Park Cities Philatelic Society was called to order at the Edgemere Senior Living Facility at 7:31 PM by vice President Al Dlhy. Al gave out our first two Birthday Cards of the year. We waved the reading of the minutes and the Treasurer gave the Treasurer's Report. It showed the expenditure for the Christmas Dinner. This brought on a discussion of what to do about Scott Catalogues for the year 2027. There was discussion of no buy, versus complete purchase, versus buying just the Specialized Catalogue. Tom Cunningham let the group know that Scott was enlarging the print for the 2027 catalogues. A vote was taken and it was decided to buy just the Specialized Catalogue for 2027 which comes out a little later this year. We also discussed the University of Texas Library and their Philatelic Collection and the great work of the lady at the UTD Weinberg library. This is a resource we should all use.

The presentation was by Tim Wallaert and was about how computer programs can help collectors Tim examined ease of entry and simplicity of utilization. There are 5 programs he found, 3 cloud based and 2 PC based. He looked first at the 3 cloud based programs and found them all difficult to use and having other problems . He also found they could be expensive. He found both the PC based programs, Stamp Manager and EZStamp had straight forward navigation and allowed you to put in what you want. He showed the yearly price which was a lot less (about $90) for Stamp Manager. I believe they could give you a custom report on your collection All of the programs require quite a bit of effort for large collections. It was an excellent presentation and well worth looking into.

We then moved to Jack's books for which unfortunately due to the length of the meeting some of the members were not able to stay. I would like to highlight once again the UTD Library as a great source for our collectors and encourage visiting it when you can. Also it was reported that Don had enough stamps for use at DISD schools but now he told me he could use Asian stamps and Papua New Guinea, if available.

March 25, 2026

The 3/25/2026 meeting of the Dallas Park Cities Philatelic Society was called to order at the Edgemere Senior Living facility by President Torres at 7:39 PM. We have the new microphones and they are in use. The treasurer was called on and gave the Treasurer's Report, The Secretary moved we dispense with the reading of the minutes and the vote was unanimous. Under old business Don Wolman reported on his work with the Dallas School District youth. He has had about 1800 students so far and looks in the next week or so to make the number over 2000 and he reports he has had a great deal of interest from the students. He reported he has enough stamps for the rest of the year and really appreciates the support of the club members. He even reported one student told him his program made his day the best day of his life. We are always glad to hear youth are enjoying stamps like we do. Al then presented the silent auction and it was a huge success. Geoff had 16 items for bidding and Stuart had 3 more plus Perry had about 10 items. The items for auctions were wonderful items. I thought the 1984 Olympic book that Sam won the bidding on was a beautiful piece. I was fortunate to win the bidding on the Penny Black of Great Britain. The club raised well over $500 in the auction and both Stuart and Perry sold items also I never thought I would get a Penny Black and a USA #1 on the same night. All of the items in the auction were good and all of them got bids.

After the auction we did Jack's stamps and then adjourned at 8:33 PM.

Respectfully submitted,
Jerry Madden Secretary.

BOARD MEETING MINUTES

February 11, 2026

The 2/11/2026 meeting of the Board of the Dallas Park Cities Philatelic Society was called to order by President Torres at 6:36 PM at the Edgemere Senior Living facility. A quorum was present. The members present were Sam, Al, Jerry, Rod and Fernando. The first subject was microphones. The most recent microphone is missing and presumed lost. Rod moved we allocate up to $250 for a new microphone. Fernando had done quite a bit of research and found hand held microphones with battery packs for less that the amount voted and he was instructed by the board to go ahead and make the purchase and have it sent to us immediately. Fernando was to order the microphone Thursday.

Jack was shown as present at 6:44PM Al talked next as the meeting was opened up to the activities for the rest of the year as presented by Al at the last club meeting. Al presented his ideas for birthday cards for the members and had some samples with him. The birthday cards would have some stamps in them based on the responses given to the club on what the member collects. If you have a preference on what you would like in your birthday card let Al Dlhy know so we can get that on the club listing. We then brought up other items on the schedule. Jerry recommended that on the dates we have a silent auction scheduled there be additions to the schedule as a silent auction would be too short and silent an item for a meeting and that it should be accompanied by a presentation or some other item to make a complete meeting. Jerry used his experience with programs with silent auctions as a background for this suggestion. It was generally well received. There was some discussion of club member numbers. Al then brought up the Ask The Expert program which is scheduled for our next meeting on Feb 25. We need more items to be brought up for discussion and Fernando recommended we ask members to submit items for expert response via a broad email that can have a picture of the item attached and sent to all members. This item was approved and we will have a general email sent out on this mailing list next week to have your items to ask the expert attached for all members to see and possibly to discuss. Bill Laupus came in to the meeting 6:55PM. Al also brought up the Scavenger Hunt item and talked about plans for this item. We also discussed the regular auctions of items that Geoff has for the club and Jerry recommended we continue the as we are currently doing. This resulted in some discussion as to what would be the best item for the club revenues and this item will get further discussion. It was postponed as Geoff was not at the meeting and his recommendation is important on this item.

Sam then brought up the Christmas Party and there were several problems at our last party It was recommended that the President set up a committee to plan for our next Christmas Dinner and have an improved event this year. This item was passed by the board and I am sure we will be getting an update on this at upcoming meetings. The board meeting was adjourned at 7:29PM.

Respectfully submitted.
